This course will introduce students to economic theories of regulation. We will explore theories of market failure and the rationale for regulation. We will explore how regulators function in differing institutional environments. With this analytic toolkit we will then study various topical areas of regulation including: Monopoly and Antitrust, Environmental, Health, Safety, Financial Market, Housing, and Vice.

Expectations: You are expected to read each week's assigned readings BEFORE coming to class and to be prepared to discuss them. Readings will come from the books, professional journal articles, and policy studies. Graduate school is about transforming from a consumer of economics to a producer of new economic knowledge. Unless you engage and digest the readings on your own before class you will have difficulty making the transition.
